CONDITION OF THE STATE.

The above sound sense comes from the Reno Journal:

Nevada is not only holding its own, but shows gradual improvement, and is destined to receive its proportion of the "boom" which is rolling along all over the entire Pacific Coast. Everywhere the people of this State are rejoicing at better times, and the flattering prospects of the future. Millions have been contributed from the mines, but the mountains and hills yet contain many millions and the outlook for a largely increased output is better than it has been for years. The old and still favorite Comstock is again on the eve of important developments, and the time is near at hand for the finding and extraction of bonanzas. The prospects of Tuscarora are bright. Some rich discoveries have lately been made in White Pine, Lincoln and Nye counties. Humboldt continues to produce its share, and is doing lively prospecting for more. Eureka, Austin and down in Esmeralda the work of production continues satisfactorily. Almost everywhere the pick and drill are in use, and from ten millions per annum the yield is soon likely to increase fifty per cent. Our cattle and sheep are doing well on the green grass of the hills and this industry is in a splendid condition. The farmers are happy and year by year the agricultural area of the State becomes greater. It will not be very long before there will be new railroad work inaugurated and within two or three years the people will not be at the mercy of one road. Nevada will grow up with the country.

THE RESERVATION.

The people of this county regardless of political difference are as one respecting the uselessness of retaining the Walker River Reservation. Every candidate who comes here promises to do something and nothing is done. While it will be admitted that the Indians do not use the land, that is, the land surrounding the lake, and while it will also be admitted that the lake is sparingly used by them, the idea is allowed to remain in Washington that it is a case of Indian persecution. This is simply nonsense. If the Southern half of the Reservation were abandoned white men would immediately begin to prospect and fish and the Plutes could follow them. The Indians would have the same privileges that they now have and encouraged by the presence of white men from whom they could beg an occasional meal, or for whom they could do an occasional chore they would make much more use of the territory and get more benefit from it than at present. It is not claimed that the fishing would add any immense sums to our revenue or that a larger number of men would make a living from the lake, but there would be an addition and there would be a business for white men where there now is none. Of course the value of the mountains as treasure vaults is to be determined, but all experienced prospectors who have seen the country are satisfied that many rich ledges exist, none of which can be developed while the Indian authorities hold their line around the territory. It is certain that were the country opened there would be a crowd of prospectors ready to go in and learn what is there.

The way Cleveland potters around planting trees, admiring pumpkins and receiving the adulation of simple villagers reminds us of Rutherford B. Hayes. If Cleveland has so much time to spare, why does he not strike out and see some of the great country he is president of? It would enlarge his mind and give him some new ideas.—S. F. Report.

The number of important additions of blooded cattle to the herds of our stockmen recently augurs well for the future of the beef industry of Nevada. Over one hundred bulls of the Galloway and Polled Angus stock have already been imported this season, and the end is not yet.—Stockman.
